New swine flu centres set up

ADVICE: Health bosses advise people to 'catch' a cold or sneeze in a tissue

By CHRIS HOPPER

Health officials are setting up three centres in East Lancashire to hand out swine flu medication.

It comes as people are urged to stay at home and contact their GP or NHS Direct if they have flu-like symptoms.

'Anti-viral collection centres' will be at the Acorns health centre in Accrington, the Irwell health centre in Bacup and Burnley's St Peter's pharmacy.

There have been 55,000 swine flu cases in England and around 30 deaths. The Government is predicting that between 19,000 and 65,000 people in the UK could die from the virus this winter.

Officials have urged people not to panic, saying that seasonal flu can cause as many as 20,000 deaths during winter. Blackburn with Darwen PCT has predicted the borough could see 300 new cases each day at worst, while the East Lancashire PCT, covering the rest of the area, has refused to give any estimates.

'Stay at home and call your GP or NHS Direct'

The Government revealed a national flu service would be launched this week to relieve the pressure on the health service.

The phone and website service will be able to provide flu diagnosis and access to drugs without the need to go to GPs.

Meanwhile, the Church of England in East Lancashire has banned communion wine to help stop the spread of the virus.

Bishop Nicholas Reade said 'the time had come to enter a new phase of infection control'. He has also told priests in Blackburn Diocese's 230 parishes, which covers most of Lancashire, that consecrated bread must be placed in the hands of worshippers, not into their mouths.

Dr Ellis Friedman, public health director at NHS East Lancashire, added: "Anything that helps contain the spread of swine flu is to be welcomed." He urged people to 'catch' coughs and sneezes in tissues and wash hands properly to control the spread of swine flu.

X marks the spot for young voters

By NAFEESA SHAN

Pupil power has taken over at an East Lancashire school, allowing pupils to revolutionise meal times, mix with pupils from other cultures and opt to hold an official voting day.

The youngsters at Meadowhead Junior School, Anglesey Road, Blackburn, have made changes within their school, some of which have been recorded into a report for other Blackburn with Darwen schools through the school council.

Teachers took a step back and the 22 children on the council listened to the complaints from their classmates and decided to make changes and a difference.

They improved lunchtimes by reorganising where children sit, as previously children with packed lunches sat separately and they redesigned the school menu with popular healthy foods after a number of trial runs.

Their changes have been included in a Blackburn with Darwen healthy schools report.

The Meadowhead school children, conscious there was limited access to different cultures within the school, also teamed up with St Silas CofE Primary School, which has a majority Asian population, to learn about each other.

And to vote for the new incoming council they contacted Blackburn with Darwen Council and asked for official voting booths, voting papers, procedures and appointed a presiding officer.

Alice Haley, nine, said: "I am proud of myself and the work we have done."

Taylor Carrie, 11, said: "We have mixed with different children from different schools."

Year 3 teacher Joanne Naylor said: "The children have shown a lot of maturity and have taken the initiative to organise and sort out the things they wanted to change in the school themselves."

Great choice on your doorstep

ADVERTISEMENT FEATURE

Blackburn boasts a large and diverse selection of shops and stores, with a large, covered shopping mall and traditional town centre outlets along radiating streets.

Visitors will find an array of high street names, mingling with designer outlets and independent shops packed with specialist products and goods.

And soon there will be bags more choice for shoppers.

The old Lord Square has now gone and an extension to the shopping mall is currently being created with the promise of many new retailing names to attract both townsfolk and visitors alike.

The vast choice of stores in Blackburn negates the need to travel to out-of-town shopping malls, as shoppers can be assured they will find their needs on their own doorstep.

Heritage corridors have been created along the major arteries into the town centre, with improvements to stores, the addition of street furniture and modern sculptures, ensuring that while facilities are up to date to attract shoppers, the town has not lost its character or history. The town also boasts a selection of mill shops, which first came into being via the cotton industry, selling textiles and fabrics.

Today, however, the choice has expanded and you'll find mill shops selling a whole variety of goods at bargain prices.

At Bastfield Mill, for instance, you'll find wallcoverings retailer, Ovalworld, which offers one of the largest selections of wallpapers in the country. First established by Stan Short back in 1983, it is today run by his son Martin.

The old, renovated cotton mill in Little Harwood houses 1,500 bin spaces, offering quality wallcoverings from all the major manufacturers and in designs for all, whether you are looking for traditional, or contemporary.

Overheads are low, allowing the company to keep prices competitive.

Planners get 1 complaint a day

By NAFEESA SHAN

A road built on greenbelt land, illegal excavations and the erection of a flag pole are just a few of the developments carried out by residents and businesses without permission from council bosses.

Hyndburn Borough Council revealed it receives one complaint a day from vigilant members of the public who have spotted changes being made to buildings and land without planning permission.

The figure of 96 complaints in a three month period, was revealed at a meeting of the borough's development control committee.

Council enforcement officers have investigated all the complaints, some of which were found not to have breached regulations, while others such as the flag pole at Green Howarth Golf Club and the traveller site in Whinney Hill Road are still under investigation.

But action has been taken against others, including A1 Skip Hire in Holme Road, Clayton-le-Moors, which has been advised to restore a road it created back to greenbelt. A banner at 194-196 Blackburn Road, Accrington was also removed after officers intervened.

NOT UNIQUE: Coun Peter Britcliffe

The figures were released for the first time as a result of a new method of recording and publishing them.

Coun Lynn Wilson said: "It seems rather unfortunate that there are 96 calls under investigation because there has been some sort of breach.

"If there is a breach they don't even get a fine, they only get a fine if it goes through the court."

Speaking to the Lancashire Telegraph, council leader Peter Britcliffe said: "It is a problem, though not one that is unique to Hyndburn.

"When these matters are drawn to our attention of course we have to investigate and put matters right.

"People really do need to check whether or not their developments will need permission.

"It will make life much easier for them and everyone else to get the permission beforehand rather than have to pull down an unsuitable development later on."

Planning officers had a variety of unapproved developments reported to them including boundary walls, garden decking, siting of caravans, home owners extending into green belt, and putting new shop fronts and shutters on businesses.

BLACKBURN DARWEN

Midwives' work praised by MPs

Midwives from East Lancashire's hospitals, who more than doubled the area's home and water birth rate in just two years, have received a prestigious MPs' award.

Representatives of the midwifery team at East Lancashire Hospitals NHS Trust travelled to Westminster to collect their All-Party Parliamentary Group Maternity Service Award.

The team were awarded the Normality of Childbirth category at the annual awards after transforming the choices and opportununities available to expectant mums.

Louise Dunn, a Ribble Valley mother-of-three who is chairwoman of East Lancashire Hospitals NHS Trust's Maternity Services Liaison Committee, said she had personally benefited from the service's development.

AWARD: MP Jack Straw with some of the midwives

She said water birth training for just two midwives in 2006 had spread through the service and sparked a "phenomenal shift" in the ways births are managed.

And despite staff shortages, the midwives have added extra "on-call" time to their rotas to ensure they can offer full support for women opting to have their babies at home.

By the end of 2008, almost six per cent of East Lancashire mothers were opting for water births, and more than three per cent chose a home birth.

Bid to cut fire deaths

A council leader has backed a plan to investigate the high number of accidental fire deaths among the elderly.

At the annual meeting of Lancashire Fire and Rescue Service, Hyndburn Council leader Peter Britcliffe described as "worrying" the fact that 64per cent of fatalities were in the 65-plus age range.

Coun Britcliffe welcomed plans for Lancashire Fire and Rescue Service to revisit older people to look at safety arrangements.

He said: "These plans are very good news. Many older people, especially those on their own, find it very difficult even to check that their smoke alarms are working.

"These checks should help to reduce casualties."

Walkers can foil crime

Dog walkers are being asked to join a new crime-fighting initiative by Hyndburn's Community Safety Partnership.

Those joining the scheme will be asked to look out for suspicious, or unusual, activity when they are out and about walking their dogs.

To register call 01254 380299.

Decision in their court

Darwen Tennis Club has asked Darwen and Rural Neighbourhood Board for £10,000 towards the £60,000 cost of refurbishing two courts.

A decision will be made in August.

Work to stop floods

By EMMA CRUCES

Houses faced with regular flooding problems will be protected in a £2 million scheme set to cause eight months of roadworks.

Around 15 addresses in the Wordsworth Road area of Accrington, near Mount Carmel High School, are on United Utilities' regular flood register as the properties have flooded with sewage water at least once.

The flooding is due to an inadequate and ageing drainage system which the company says is in desperate need of repair.

Torrential rain causes the system to overflow at key weak points.

To fix the problems, United Utilities has announ-ced a scheme to provide the area with a new system which would not only cope with torrential rain, but a 'one in 30 years storm'.

An underground emergency overflow tank is to be installed beneath Mount Carmel High School's playing fields, capable of storing 600 cubic metres when the system is under pressure.

To set up the new system, roadworks will take place in Wordsworth Road and parts of Fern Gore Avenue, Dunny Shop Avenue and Clarence Road.

United Utilities' project co-ordinator Mark Clinton said: "Residents seemed happy to hear that something was going to get done about the problems, even if it does mean ongoing road works."

Work, which will be ongoing at Wordsworth Road for eight months, began on Monday to coincide with work being started on the school's car park.

In six weeks' time work will then begin on the nearby roads.

Classic cakes are the best!

TELL US ABOUT THE NEW GREEN'S CAMPAIGN. HOW DID YOU GET INVOLVED?

Well it's all very exciting. I love baking with my sons – it's a great way to spend quality time together and have fun. It's part of your childhood isn't it? It's great to encourage people to get into the kitchen and do some baking and sharing it with friends and family. 'Green's Tuesday' aims to prompt people every week to get baking to make a difference. Whether it is cakes, cookies or muffins, you can raise money for charity and also a smile with a tasty token of affection.

WHAT'S YOUR FAVOURITE CAKE?

I like the classics, like Victoria sandwich. It's what I've been brought up on.

TODAY WITH DES AND MEL WAS GREAT FUN. WOULD YOU LIKE TO DO ANOTHER CHAT SHOW IN THE FUTURE?

Chat is what I do best, to be honest. It's my little niche, so yes I'd love to. I do sit in for Paul O'Grady quite a lot actually. It's the natural home for me to be in.

WOULD YOU EVER LIKE TO BRANCH OUT INTO ACTING?

I wanted to a little bit in my twenties, and I studied in New York for a while. I'm great ad-libbing and improvising, but trying to breathe the natural life into a script isn't something I feel I could do.

FIVE MINUTES WITH ... Melanie Sykes

Melanie Sykes started her TV career on The Big Breakfast and went on to present Today With Des And Mel before most recently becoming an ambassador for baking mix maker Green's. The 38-year-old joins the UK's biggest bake-off with 'Green's Tuesday' - a tasty new initiative encouraging the nation to bake every week.

Having a scream

She's always steaming, babe. It's an absolute scream to be her," roars Su Pollard enthusiastically.

The Hi-De-Hi actress and comedian is referring to her latest role as the dastardly Miss Hannigan in Annie, calling at Manchester's Lowry theatre from next week.

"The best bit about her is how little time it takes me to get ready," she went on. "I watch the other girls battle for an hour or so with hair and makeup and all I do is stand on my horrible wig a bit to make it look more of a mess. I'm done in less than five minutes," she added.

The musical, which is currently in the first weeks of its UK tour, comes as Su celebrates 30 years in the industry and her 60th birthday.

It was 1979 when Su starred in her first sitcom, Two Up, Two Down with Paul Nicholas, and the same year she became a house hold name in BBC holiday camp comedy, Hi-De-Hi — set for an anniversary party later this year.

Over the years she has rarely been out of work, appearing in a total of 32 pantomimes, and despite reaching a milestone 60th birthday this November she has no intentions of slowing down.

"I said to Hilda the other day – that's my mum, I stopped calling her mum when I was 15. I was a hippy and decided it wasn't cool, and it's just stuck.

"Anyway, I said to Hilda 'While there's blood in my veins I'll be doing what I enjoy. I don't want to be sat at traffic lights. I want to be on green for as long as possible, even though I don't drive," she laughed.

And the wild fashion sense she has become so well-known for hasn't shown any signs of calming down either.

"It just gives me a thrill to be outrageous and experimental with my clothes," she said. "I get sent all sorts of unique items from fashion students these days. I don't have to go shopping. It's great!"

● Annie — The Lowry, Salford Quays, July 28 until August 1. Tickets on 0870 787 5780.

ROY THE DECOY
Police officers were looking for drink drivers in Blackburn bars. At closing time,Roy ,tripped over a step,tried his keys in 5 different cars.
Everyone left and quickly drove away.
But soon they were to discover- DRINK DRIVING DOESN'T PAY.
"Breathe into this bag,"said a very serious cop.
"No point,"said Roy,"not touched a drop."
The policeman smiled,then said to Roy,
"You must be tonight's designated decoy!"
But down the road,all the drivers were in shock.
They all failed the breath test after a drink drive road block
